Dear Ms. Eisert:

Third and fourth grade children and their parents will participate in a George Washington University sponsored "You and Your Child at the Museum" workshop Wednesday, July 15 from 10-11:30 a.m. at the National Museum of Natural History.

PHOTO OPPORTUNITIES: While visiting the Hall of Mammals, children and parents will learn they have different points of view partly because of their difference in size. Parents will look at the exhibit kneeling while children stand on chairs and each sees the other through new eyes. In the Sea Life Hall, children and parents will play a theater game with the Blue Whale. They will learn the whale breathes like a human, and while standing under it, they will form the rib cage of the whale with locked arms and "breathe" like the whale.

The group will meet at the Constitution Avenue door at 10 a.m. Estimated time in the Hall of Mammals is 10:30; 11:00 in the Sea Life Hall.

This is a good opportunity to use a visual twist to the "children visit the museum" story. Let me know if I can be of assistance.

Sincerely,

Diane H. Rush
